

Plan

Planning can be a set of procedures that are orderly parts of an overall design or objective. Planning can be negative when it preserves already established practices and values through inflexibility, and the stability that planning offers may limit choice. Planning is helpful in looking backward and it works best when strategies are already in place, not when strategic change is needed.

...Creatively Plan

When creativity is added to planning - it's like a small drop in a puddle that continues to grow into your strategies as you work towards results.

When you plan creatively, you think about the future as you make decisions that will propel you towards that future. Creativity in your planning should rearrange what you have, as needed, to help move towards change. Change can be uncomfortable as new models are developed. But that's fine since planning needs to be responsive to events that occur as adaptations are made to changing conditions. Planning needs to be creative and visionary to help you reach your goals.

*Inspired Schooling Solutions can help you plan creatively.